WHAT’S A SOCIAL BUBBLE?

As Marin reopens, your social circle can expand slightly to include others outside your household. Stable groups of 12 people or less who have agreed to limit their social activities to only each other for at least three weeks can gather together outdoors. This is called a “social bubble.”

Stable, consistent groups of 12 people or less

All members of a single household must be part of same Social Bubble

Adults can only be part of 1 Social Bubble

Outdoor gatherings only

Wear a face covering

Engage in physical distancing

After 3 weeks, if there is no concern about sickness, members can form a new Social Bubble with different people

A child in shared custody can be in a Social Bubble for each parent or guardian.

Children may also be part of 1 other stable group of children—either childcare or an extracurricular activity, such as a summer camp.

Childcare and camps must still follow previously announced rules for limited group sizes and social distancing.
